- Tables annex

On 1 January 2024, there were 3,255,276 economically active enterprises in Spain, 1.5% more than on the same date the previous year.

By sectors, Other Services accounted for the largest proportion in the enterprise population structure, with 65.3% of the total.

This sector, which had 2,060,614 active enterprises, includes all those engaged in hospitality, transportation and storage, information and communications, financial and insurance activities, real estate, professional, scientific and technical activities, administrative activities and auxiliary services, educational, health and social assistance and other social activities, including personal services.

The proportion of Commerce was also significant, accounting for 19.5% of the total. This sector encompasses the enterprises engaged in wholesale and retail trading activities and trade brokers and intermediaries.

Finally, enterprises in the Construction sector accounted for 11.8% of the total and those of Industry, 5.4%.

Active enterprises by number of employees

A total of 1.69 million enterprises did not employ any employees at all as of 1 January 2024. This figure represents 52.0% of the total. In addition, another 955,079 enterprises (29.3% of the total) had one or two employees. If these two groups are added together, 81.3% had two or fewer employees.

If we only consider enterprises with employees, those with 20 or more employees accounted for 4.8% of the total.

The highest percentage of small enterprises occurred in the Other Services sector (84.0% had two or fewer employees). In contrast, large enterprises were mostly concentrated in the Industrial sector, where 9.3% of the total employed 20 or more employees.

Active enterprises by economic sector, by employee range

Active enterprises by size and age ranges

The age distribution is linked to size. Thus, the presence of very young enterprises was highly significant as of 1 January 2024 in the micro-enterprise segment (39.2% of the enterprises without employees were between their first and fourth years of existence).

On the other hand, there was a greater representation of older enterprises in the larger ones (33.9% of enterprises with 20 or more employees had existed for at least 20 years).

Active enterprises that have a sole proprietor as legal support, by gender

The CBR recorded 1,838,474 enterprises that had a sole proprietor as their legal support as of 1 January 2024. This population accounted for 56.5% of the total set of units.

Of these enterprises, 37.7% had a woman as the sole proprietor. However, it should be noted that this representativeness is not uniform by activity. Thus, activities related to Education, Health and Social Services recorded a majority presence of businesswomen (58.4% of the total). On the other hand, men were the majority in Construction (97.1% of the total) and Transportation and Storage (88.8%).

Methodological note

Due to the entry into force of EBS Regulation 2019/2152 and its Implementation Act 2020/1197, the statistical use of the Central Business Register (CBR) has adopted some methodological changes since 2022. The new definition of economically active enterprise, implemented in 2022, affects the count of the number of active enterprises, so there is a break in series in 2022 and the data are not comparable with those of previous years.

On the other hand, the CBR continues to use the concept of the enterprise implemented in 2018, according to which the aspects of organisational structure, decision-making autonomy and market orientation are emphasised. In short, the economic factors of the units take precedence over the traditional vision, more oriented to legal aspects.

The Central Business Register (CBR) brings together in a single information system all Spanish enterprises and their local units located in the national territory. It is a key infrastructure tool for the development and coordination of the research system aimed at production units.

To meet this requirement, the CBR must be duly updated and the units must be listed with reliable identification, location and classification data.

The CBR is assembled and maintained on an annual basis, based on data from various sources of administrative and statistical origin. All this information undergoes a sophisticated process of filtering treatments, harmonisation and integration in order to achieve complete national coverage.

Other goals of the CBR are:

- To provide structural data on the number of enterprises and premises existing in Spain classified according to their main economic activity, employee ranges, legal condition and geographic location.
- To provide data on the temporal evolution of enterprises in terms of newly registered enterprises, existing enterprises and deregistered enterprises, identified in the year the Register was updated, and their classification by the usual variables.
- To satisfy the information demands required by international organisations, and in particular, by the Statistical Office of the European Union (Eurostat).
